Jean and Marquis Mallette came from France in 1810. They came on a cattle boat to "New France" on the Central Gulf Coast. I understand that there was a third brother but we have no record of his name. It seems that he settled near Vandeave.

Jean was anglicized to John and Marquis became Mark or Marcus when they arrived in the New World. We are not certain when they moved inland in Jackson County to the head of Cedar Creek but it probably was in the year 1820. Since John was born in the province of Normandy, France in 1790 he probably was 20 years old when they landed here. According to Cain's "Four Centuries," he married Elizabeth Tillman who bore 7 children. They were Colene, Clement, William, Mary, Samuel, James, and George. They were all born between 1834 and 1849.

We have no further information on Marquis except to say he was buried in the dense thicket along with John and John's wife on property now owned by the Fletcher Reads.

This old homesite was bought by W. D. Horne, the father of Mrs. Read in 1909. He was fresh from Jasper County. In the Archives in Jackson it says that it was Dr. Horne who bought the place. Now we know better. Mrs. Read has two pictures of the old home as John Mallette built it and as it stood there when the Hornes came to Jackson County a year before George County was organized. One section of the old log house still stands there in the back.

A casual glance at this structure as it remains today confirms the patience and skill characteristic of these Old World people. My own ancestors would have been content to fell the trees, notch the ends of the logs, and throw up a fresh air deal open to the elements.

just put a price on their heads and spread his dragnet.

But these wily Normans had underground connections. So they skipped out to a great big new world to die in. Just seven years earlier Thomas Jefferson had bought "New France" from the little Corporal in the Louisiana Purchase. Now the long arm of Bonaparte was somewhat shorter.

Dale Greenwell in his "Twelve Flags," says that there were other Mallettes down on the Coast. But most of those in our area are from John and his wife Elizabeth Tillman.

It seems that most of the descendants of John moved up to the level land around Rocky Creek. In fact there was a post office and railroad stop at Mallette once. It was near the Goose Pond. But it seems that the name was sent into the Post Office Department in Washington in hand writing and they thought it was Mullett. Mullett it has been ever since. The post office was there from 1896 to 1914 and the only keeper listed was Mary Adams.

Some of the neighbors of John Mallette were Louis Gibson who lived in what is now the Nelson Blackledge place. He is also buried in the little tangled plot on the Read property. Then there were for a while Noel Turner and his sons, Enoch and Charles. Enoch married Patsy Box of Greene County whose parents were from the old world. The name most likely was originally Bach. Charles Turner married a girl from over on the Pascagoula named Nancy Cochran.

A pine board marks the head of the grave containing the dust of John Mallette. The letters are practically all gone from the erosion of time. Mrs. Read took me to the ancient grave and said that when she was a girl the name was fairly legible. It is too bad that so many of those who came to these shores and brought of the Salem Academy at Leaf until the Civil War. Ben Married Martha Fairley, daughter of Judge John Fairley, of Benndale. Allen married Nancy Ball. Peter was wed to Margaret Smith. Archie died in childhood. Katie was not married. Kenneth married Sallie Ball and Sweyne was wed to Rachel McInnis. In Cyril Cain's book, "Four Centuries on the Pascagoula," there is a rather full account of the McInnis Line.

Mallette Brothers

In 1810 three Mallette brothers fled from Normandy France to New French America to evade the grasp of Napoleon Bonaparte. They were royalists and the "Little Corporal" first confiscated their property and then reached for their heads. Jean and Marquis finally settled at the head of Cedar Creek near the present day Union Church. The other brother is said to have located at Van Cleave. Jean now anglicized to John married Elizabeth Tillman and from this union came most if not all of the Mallettes in George County. Fletcher Read now owns the old homesite and the grave sites of some of these early Mallettes. The place was bought by his father-in-law, W. D. Horne, in 1909.

All that remains of the John Mallette home now in possession of Fletcher Read.

JOHN MALLET AND ELIZABETH TILLMAN

John Mallett (Gene Mallet) was born in Normandy, France in 1792 and made that his home until he reached the age of eighteen years. He migrated to New York about the year 1810, later worked his way on a boat to New Orleans, then bought 80 acres of land in North Jackson county, later George. Present day location of the Union Baptist Church on 613 south of Lucedale. He married Elizabeth Tillman who was born and reared in Jackson County. In 1869 John and Elizabeth deeded their homestead to their son James (Jim) and his wife Louisa Davis. John lived to be 93 years old, dying in 1885. They are buried in the old Mallett cemetery, a small plot on the original estate. Of this union seven children were born; Colena (1834), Clement (1836) William (1838), Mary (1843), Samuel (1844), James (1846), and George (1849). Most of the children lived out their lives in present day George County. One son Clement moved to the Rocky Creek community after marrying Adline Miller. There were ten children from this marriage; Manson, James, Clement Jr, John Delmas, David, Louis Edwin, George Raymore (Born Apr. 9, 1857- Died Oct 3, 1933), Julia (Eubanks), Isabelle (Havard), Mary (Taylor). Clem lived until Jan 21, 1913. He and his wife are buried in the Rocky Creek cemetery. George Raymore married Rebecca Moffet who was born Feb 22, 1852 to Gaberial Moffett and Rebecca Williams. Rebecca's grandmother Matilda, wife of Eli Moffett was attacked by the Copeland Gang, she was hit in the head and left for dead, luckily she regained consciousness and crawled out of the burning house. Eli was a bridge builder and did have quite a bit of money hidden in a nail keg which was not found by the members of the Copeland Gang. Highway 98 on the way to Mobile called Moffett Road is named after Eli. Rebecca had three brothers; Robert, Gaberial and Ira. She died Dec. 9, 1933. The following children belong to this marriage; John Oliver (1873-1936) married to Carrie Miller, Annabell (1878-1911), Married to Alex McLeod, Ira Wilson (1880-1968) married to Iela Langley, Della Elizabeth (1882-1897), she died with pneumonia at age 15. William Lawrence (Feb 13, 1885 - Jun 18, 1972) See separate history. Married to Katherine Theresa Cannon, Florence (1887-1967), married to John Parrow, Samma Curtis (1890-1967), Elma Flyder (1893-1897), died of pneumonia, and Fritz (1896-1963).

Between 16 + 17, there used to be an old oak tree but it died. Mrs. Read said there was about enough room for two graves between 16 + 17.

Mrs. Read said that when she was a little girl they were burying a woman at this cemetery and she was not permitted to go. anyway the woman's body swelled and burst. After the funeral many beggars came and lit in this old oak tree for several days.

This information was taken from Mrs. Read
June 4, 1982. She showed me the spot of the old Mallett home that was left. and walked on over to the little cemetery.

In 1916, my father came to Kreole to work at the Southern Paper Company. Our family, and the O.R. Davis family moved on the A&M Railroad train, bag and baggage. We left Evanston around noon. It was dark getting to Moss Point, so we slept on the train, with the passenger coach full of children. That was the best thing to do since it was the end of the line. When daylight came, Thelma Davis, now Mrs. R. Terreson, and I were sent to the grocery store to get our breakfast. We found Krebs Store on Main Street. I don't remember what we bought, but we looked the town over at that time of the morning.

The Davis' rented a house near the A&M depot. After daylight we all went there. Later in the day, my father got a Mr. Cothran from Kreole to move our furniture to a house in East Moss Point, where the Charlie Wilkerson home now stands. The house had not been lived in for some time.

When my mother with all the children got there, she didn't like the looks of the place. You could see the sky through the top of the house. She let it be known that she was not happy about the place. My father asked Mr. Cothran if he knew of another place to rent. He told him of one near the paper mill and my father rented it. My mother with eight children, mops, brooms, buckets, etc. walked all the way to the paper mill. The house was small, so we moved three times before we got settled. This was in February and it was cold.

We started school at the "Billy Goat" School, near the L&N Railroad, not far from the depot. Two of the teachers were Miss Ruth Cook and Miss Dora McFarland. Miss Dora taught for generations.

There was a Finnish Lutheran Church near the L&N depot and another church building toward the paper mill where the Presbyterians alternated services with to use the smallest one and I soon saw that I needed a larger place, so I moved next door. Then we bought a house on the highway across from the mill. We built a brick building beside it. We moved there in 1937, and ran the business until the last day of 1965. We sold the place to Paul Morris of Lockport, LA. He ran a fabric business before selling the place to Sue and Adrian Wright, who now run Wright Office Supply Company from there.

In 1969, Mr. Haarala passed away. At that time, I moved to Pascagoula to be near my daughter and her family. I still love to visit in dear old Kreole and see so many of my old friends and customers of whom I have many fond memories.

Subject: Mallette Family

Hi Patricia,

My name is Else Martin, retired librarian of the Local History and Genealogy Dept. of the Pascagoula Public Library. Throughout the years I have helped many research the Mallette family. I have a bit of a Mallette-Gill collection of my own. Not the personal stories, of course, but mostly names, dates and places. I also edit The Journal, an annual publication of our Genealogical Society.

Two of my favorite teachers and friends were Marland H. Mallette and wife.

Joanne Anderson sent me the Mallette Family History to review. It is really an excellent easy to read collection of one of our special Jackson County families throughout the generations.

First - I have the 1820 and 1830 Census of John Mallette.
There were two counties on the coast - Hancock and Jackson.
The area where he lived in 1820 and 1830 would most likely be Jackson County in 1840, after Harrison County was created taking the east half of Hancock and the west half of Jackson County.

When John Mallette died in 1885, he was living in the north part of OLD Jackson County, now known as George County.

1820 Hancock County, Mississippi

Jean Mallet or Malley listed as head of household of:

2 white males under age 10
2 white males ages 16 to 26 - One of these may be John
3 white males ages 26 to 45
5 white females under age 10
4 white females ages 16 to 26
1 white female age 26 to 45
No slaves

Even though he arrived in Feb 1820, I believe this must be the correct John. He may be listed as head of several families living in the same household. I would like to study the families listed next to him and see who they are because in 1830 he is living next door to Elizabeth's Tillman family.

1830 Hancock County, Mississippi (May be in the back Bay Biloxi area or Fort Bayou area)

John Malley listed as head of household of:

1 white male under age 5 - Peter Vincent Malley/Mallette, born 1826

1 white male age 10 to 15 - John Malley/Mallette, Jr., born ca 1820

1 white male age 30 to 40 - John Malley/Mallette, Sr., born ca 1792

2 white females under age 5 - Anna born 1826 & Elizabeth b ca 1829

1 white female age 20 to 30 - believed to be a 1st wife Mrs. Louise Necaise Fayard, widow, born ca 1790 with children. She died after the birth of Elizabeth ca. 1832.

Louise Necaise was the daughter of Jean Baptiste Martial Necaise and Louise Ladner.

She is most likely the be the mother of John, Peter Vincent, Anna & Elizabeth Mallette

NEXT DOOR!

James Tillman, Sr., listed as head of household of:

2 white males ages 5 to 10 -

1 white male age 10 to 15 - son, John Tillman

1 white male age 20 to 30 - son, James Tillman, Jr.

1 white male age 50 to 60 - James Tillman, Sr., widowed

2 white females age 5 to 10 -

1 white female age 10 to 15 - Elizabeth Tillman?

1 white female age 15 to 20 - Elizabeth Tillman?

1840 Jackson Co, Miss. Census (North Jackson Co - south of Lucedale now)

John Mallett, listed as head of household of:

1 white male age 40 to 50 - John Mallette

1 white female age 20 to 30 - wife Elizabeth Tillman

1 white female age 10 to 15 - Anna

1 white female age 10 to 15 - Elizabeth

1 white male age 10 to 15 - son Peter Vincent born 1827

1 white female age 5 to 10 - daughter, Celine, born 1834

1 white male age 0 to 5 - son Clement, born 1836

1 white male age 0 to 5 - son William, born 1838

NEXT DOOR!

James Tillman, Sr., listed as head of household of:

1 white male age 60 to 70 - James Tillman, Sr. (widowed)

1 white male age 15 to 20 -

1 white female age 15 to 20 -

1 white female age 10 to 15 -

NEXT

James Tillman, Jr., listed as head of household of:

1 white male age 20 to 30 - James Tillman, Jr.

1 white female age 20 to 30 - wife

1 white male age 10 to 15

NEXT

John Tillman, listed as head of household of:

1 white male age 20 to 30 - John Tillman

1 white female age 20 to 30 - wife

1 white male age 0 to 5 - son

1850 Jackson Co, Miss. Census

My list of known children of John Mallette & Louise Necaise Mallette

1. John Mallette, II, born ca 1820 Miss.

Married Mary Quave (born 1830-31) Oct 1, 1846

John "Maly" purchased land March 15, 1854 in Township 7, Range 7

2. Lucien Mallette ? Some researchers list him as born ca 1820's in Miss.

Married Margaret Saucier

He may actually be a son of Louise Necaise from her first marriage.

We need to check the Ladner Book for him.

3. Vincent Peter Mallette, born ca 1826-27, died ca 1863

Married Louise Marie Quave about 1852,

Daughter of Pierre Baptiste Quave/Cuevas & Marie Louise Ladner of Cat Island

Louise died Jan 7, 1916 and is buried in Antioch Cemetery, Ft. Bayou

Vincent "Maly" purchased land March 15, 1854 in Township 7, Range 7

4. Anna Mallette, born ca 1827-28 Miss.

Married Pierre Simon Quave/Cuevas, born Jan 5, 1828 Miss.

Pierre served in the Confederate Army, Live Oak Rifles.

He may have died during the war.

5. Elizabeth Mallette, born ca 1829-30 Miss.

Married Christopher Quave Aug 16, 1850 in Biloxi

Chris Quave was born Nov 6, 1829 in Biloxi.

Confederate soldier, he was killed in the Civil War in 1863

6. Rebecca Mallette - Listed as a child by some researchers.

I am not sure about her and have not researched her.

The above children married and lived in the Fort Bayou Area of Jackson County.

John Mallette moved to the East side of the Pascagoula River after the death of his 1st wife Louise ca 1832. He remarried Elizabeth Tillman ca 1833 and the Tillman family moved with them.

Elizabeth Tillman was born ca 1814 and is the daughter of James Tillman, Sr.

I am not sure who her mother was.

Known children of John Mallette & Elizabeth Tillman

7. Celena Mallette, born about 1834
8. Clement Mallette, born July 31, 1836, died Jan 21, 1913
Lived in Rocky Creek, George Co, Miss.
Married Adline Miller
9. William Mallette, born about 1838
10. Mary Mallette, born about 1843
11. Samuel Mallette, born about 1844 (Same person as James?)
12. ?James Mallette, born about 1846 not listed in 1850 (Same person as Samuel? age 27 in 1870)
Married Louise Davis, born ca 1852

I have lots more - as a matter of fact, I was working on Samuel Griffin, Jr. and Elizabeth Bruner yesterday. And there is lots of confusion with the McGill/Gill, name. I have been trying to help several untangle the name changes.

Rick,

There is quite a difference in our info. And I would really like you to have copies of the documentation found. We go to the genealogy dept. almost every sat. And make copies of the records found pertaining to John Sr's families. There is so many books and records to be researched I'm sure there will be more info found on this subject. But I will try to explain what documentation I have at this point, that makes my info. different from yours. Note: On census records you give or take one year depending on what month the census was taken and what month of the year their birth day was. There are also known mistakes on census records due to the method and communication of Census takers and French speaking families. Info. taken from the actual written census record, and having more than one Census record to compare dates with gives you less chance of leaving out children that has become of age and moved out, or died.

1. John Sr., Sr. lived to be 93 and died in 1885, him and his wife Elizabeth Tillman was buried in the old Mallett cemetery on their original estate.
2. John Sr. and Louise Necaise was married before 1820 based on the birth dates of John Jr. and his brother Lucien.
3. Children of John Sr. and Louise Necaise:

John Jr. b. 1820....1850 JaxCo. Census shows John Jr. head of household age 29 yrs...his wife Mary age 18 yrs...son Lucien age 2 yrs...daughter Mary age 9 mths...John Jr's brother Vincent age 23 yrs...John Jr's sister Elizabeth age 19 yrs.....They were living in the same household.

NOTE : Mary Quave Mallett in the 1860 HarCo. Census is listed as age 30 or born in 1830. John Jr. is listed as age 40.

NOTE : We also know that John Jr. & his brother Lucien was at least 21 yrs. old in 1849 because of the record in the HarCo. Deed Book A, pps.338/339 This record lists John Jr. & Lucien legally sold land in Nov.16, 1849 by Deed, land descended to them through their mother Louise Necaise and to her by her father Martial Necaise. This record states that in 1849 Louise & Martial Necaise was not living at this time. This is documented in the Ladrner Odyssey book.

Lucien Mallett b.1820....Lucien is listed in the 1880 HarCo. Census age 59 carpenter living alone in Pass Christian Ms. this record states that his father was born in France and his mother was born in Ms.

NOTE : Lucien is listed in the 1870 HarCo. Census age 50 with his wife and children at that time.

Vincent Peter Mallett b. 1826....Vincent is listed in the 1850 JaxCo Census as age 23 Vincent is also listed in the 1860 JaxCo. Census as age 34 with his wife and five of his children...NOTE: His children George Lumas and Henry Adam or not in this census because they were not yet born. They are listed in the 1870 JaxCo. Census Anna Mallett b. 1827...Listed in the 1860 HarCo. Census as age 33 with her husband Pierre Simon Quave also age 33 with three children.

Elizabeth Mallett b. 1830...Listed in the 1850 JaxCo. Census as age 19

NOTE : Marriage of Elizabeth Mallett and Charlie Cuevas Dated Aug.16, 1850 at BVM - Biloxi in book 2, Page 1, Act 2

Rebecca Mallett ?...I don't have any info. on Rebecca. The info. you have on her husband will help me find her in the records.

I have copies of these records. And like you I don't understand why our info. is so different. I am going to get more records on this subject soon, it just takes some time digging in the books and rolling on the microfilm wheel. I would be glad to send you any copies I have. And if there is anything I can find on your line let me know. The hand written Census records are really nice to have.

Henry Mallette,

The Cleveland Museum of Art

September 10, 2000

Else Martin
Pascagoula Library
3214 South Pascagoula Street
Pascagoula, MS 39564

I am writing to request help with genealogical research. My mother, Nina Mallette (Robinson), was born and raised in Fort Bayou. So was her sister, Irma Mallette (Koch) and her brother, Otis Mallette.

Although not a genealogist, I have some experience with historical research. I am Curator of Paintings at the Cleveland Museum of Art and Professor of Art History at Case Western University in Cleveland, Ohio. After years of listening to stories about my family, I have decided to try and write a family history -- a project my relatives would love to see completed, especially my aunt Irma, who is now in very poor health.

I have enclosed a family genealogy based on my own research using census records and the internet. You can see where the lines stops, where information is missing etc. (I have placed missing or undocumented information -- either guesses or unconfirmed family stories -- inside brackets with question marks.)

My family history has some interesting aspects that I would eventually like to expand into a more general history. My Aunt Irma recalls a story of how Henry Cruthirds met and married Exie Ann Martin when she was only 14 years old. My relatives are also certain that one of our descendants (my guess is Susan Seymore) was a full-blooded Choctaw Indian. My mother and aunt recall that their aunt Etta, who lived in Pascagoula, owned daguerrotype photographs of this woman and her Choctaw family. (I am now trying to find these photographs).

I am also trying to reconstruct the stories of the Civil War veterans in our family. I did find a "War of 1812 Pension" file for Thomas Duprey (also spelled Dupree) at the National Archives in Washington, D.C. The lengthy file contains documents about Duprey's service during the War of 1812, as well as testimonials from various people in Fort Bayou (belonging to the Lazarus and Quave families) about Thomas Duprey's life and political views during the Civil War.

Could you possible help with the following questions: (1) Have any genealogical studies already been done on the families on my chart? (2) Does your library has old newspapers, bibles, records of the Antioch Baptist Church at Fort Bayou, etc., that might be useful to me? I would, of course, be very interested in any WPA oral histories or current histories being written about Biloxi and the surrounding region.

yes
Lots,
com -

At the suggestion of Melba Goff Allen, I have enclosed a modest sum for photocopying and postage. If possible, I would consider hiring a professional genealogist to do some of this research. I also know from personal experience that this type of research is incredibly time-consuming and would consider visiting your library and do some of it myself.

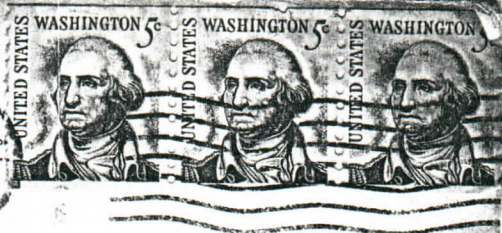

I would deeply appreciate any assistance or advice you can offer. If you do not mind, I would like to call you sometime just to ask your general advice about how I should proceed. I can also be reached through email at: robinson@cma-oh.org.
Thank you.

Sincerely,

William Robinson

Great deal to me and thank you again. I'd like to get back to Lacedale but not sure when. It really isn't for last if I & S was alone it would be a snap. But then, it takes around 10 miles or so for the birds. In the morning I would be in the morning.
We spent with my bro. I've been 40 years and it's nice to have family all together. Tell your daughter in-law thank you for showing me the printing. Still have address of Dr. Little girl in Lacedale but no time to sit & write. Finally have our house done now so hope next couple months I can have some time for me. Thanks again as ever - Farnith.

DAVID C. JONES.

David C. Jones, born in Bath County, Va., in the year 1843, died at his home near Strang, Okla., March 30, 1927, aged eighty-four years. His grandfather, Henry Jones, was a Revolutionary soldier. When quite a young man, David Jones enlisted with the Confederate army, Company C, 26th Battalion, Virginia Infantry. Five of his brothers also fought for the same cause, but he was the last to answer the great roll call.

His brothers were enlisted as follows: Alexander A. Jones, Company E, 27th Virginia. This was part of Stonewall Jackson Brigade. Later records show he enlisted in Col. Edgar's Battalion. Henry C. Jones, Company E, 26th Virginia Infantry; William Jones, Company B, 16th Virginia Cavalry; John Jones, Company E, 60th Virginia Infantry; Abel (or Abraham) Jones, 16th Virginia Cavalry.

David Jones went with his family to Southwest City, Mo., in 1884, and ten years later he moved to his farm near Strang, Okla.

He was laid to rest beside his wife in the Southwest City Cemetery, funeral services being conducted in the Presbyterian Church. The many maple trees which now shade this little church were set out years ago by him and his neighbors. He enjoyed the out-of-doors, and was a big, free-hearted Southerner. His influence for good will never die. A husband and a father like this man is a heritage that does not come to all families, and the sweet memories of his life will be a balm and source of great pleasure to his children and friends throughout their lives. He is survived by two daughters and a son, also several grandchildren.

[His niece, Mrs. J. R. Douglass, Recording Secretary, Twin Peaks Chapter, California Division, U. D. C.]

JOHN CABEEN WALLACE.

On May 27, 1927, John Cabeen Wallace, prominent citizen of Strong, Union County, Ark., answered to the last roll call. He was born in that county on April 23, 1846, and thus had passed his eighty-first milestone.

Comrade Wallace enlisted with Company G, of the 9th Arkansas Volunteer Infantry, in May, 1861, the company being mobilized by his father, Capt. Robert Minor Wallace, who was promoted to major and was wounded in the charge at Shiloh in which Gen. A. S. Johnston was mortally wounded; John Wallace's brother, William J. Wallace, major of the 9th Arkansas, was killed by a shell at Resaca, Ga., on May 15, 1864.

Of over one hundred and sixty members of that noted old Company G, only two now survive—Dr. Eugene F. Rowland, of Ruston, La., and the writer of this sketch.

[George W. Terry, Sulphur, Okla.]

BEN LEE COYLE.

Ben Lee Coyle died at his home in Huntsville, Ala., on February 26, in his eighty-second year. He was born near Meridianville, Madison County, Ala., July 1845, and spent the larger part of his life in the country as a farmer, but had made his home in Huntsville for about nine years. His wife died some years ago, but their eleven children, seven sons and four daughters, all survive him.

Comrade Coyle served as a private of the 4th Alabama Regiment of Cavalry, under General Forrest, and made a gallant soldier. He was a valued and faithful member of the Egbert J. Jones Camp, No. 357 U. C. V., of Huntsville, and also a consistent member of the First Methodist Church there. He was laid to rest in Maple Hill Cemetery, at Huntsville, with the honors paid to a brave Confederate soldier.

[A. S. Doak, Huntsville.]

SAMUEL MALLET.

Samuel Mallet, Commander of the local Camp of Confederate veterans, died on May 7, 1927, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. J. Richard, of Lake Charles, La., after an illness of five weeks. He was eighty-three years of age and had been active and in apparently good health until a few weeks ago.

A resident of Lake Charles for thirteen years, Mr. Mallet moved to this city from Glenmora, where he resided for many years. While living in Glenmora, he was a member of the Rapides Parish police jury for a number of years, and served on the Rapides school board for eight years, during which time he was active in public activities, especially in public school work.

Comrade Mallet was born in Green County, Miss., July 8, 1844. Joining the Confederate forces when sixteen years of age, he served for four years with Troop K, 16th Mississippi Cavalry. His father, Pierre Mallet, a French soldier and member of an old French family, fought under Napoleon, and later came to this country with a brother. They landed in New Foundland, from where Pierre Mallet moved to Mississippi to make his home.

Samuel Mallet is survived by five sons and four daughters.

After brief services at the home in Lake Charles, his body was taken back to Glenmora, where services were conducted at the Amiable Baptist Church, with burial in the Glenmora Cemetery.

JAMES A. WALDEN.

On May 6, 1927, James A. Walden passed away at the age of eighty-eight years. He was a son of James and Mary Hancock Walden, born October 15, 1838, near Fayette, Howard County, Mo., and a veteran of the Confederacy, having enlisted as a private and gained a lieutenancy before his discharge. He was with General Price's army, and had five brothers in the Confederate army, only one of whom, C. J. Walden, survives.

After the war, James Walden returned home and engaged in farming. In 1867 he was married to Miss Mary Robertson, and five children were born to them. His wife and two children preceded him to his home beyond, and his second wife died ten years ago. A son and two daughters survive. He was a member of the Christian Church and an elder for many years.

With a small Confederate flag clasped in his hand, he was laid to rest in the beautiful country cemetery near where he had lived his entire life.

He was a faithful reader of the VETERAN.

[A daughter, Mattie Lee Gibbs.]

THOMAS B. DIGMAN.

Thomas B. Digman was born in Barbour County, Va. (now W. Va.), July 13, 1841, and passed to his eternal reward on April 6, 1927, in his eighty-seventh year. When war came on between the States, he volunteered for the South, becoming a member of Company K, 31st Virginia Regiment, which was a part of Early's Division, Army of Northern Virginia. He served throughout the war, taking part in many engagements and was slightly wounded at Cold Harbor.

Returning home at the close of the war, he did his part in rebuilding his ruined country; for fifty years he had been very active in the ministry of the gospel of peace.

He attended the meeting of the Blue and Gray at Gettysburg in July, 1913, from which he wrote: "It is very hot here to-day, but not nearly so hot as fifty years ago." He is now resting "under the shade of the trees" on the other shore.

Sportsman of year Snooks Mallette appreciates wild game, outdoors

By DON BROADUS

Mississippi Press Staff

There is absolutely no truth in the story that Snooks Mallette once arrested his grandmother for fishing without a license.

"I never could catch grandma," Mallette admitted.

There's a good chance that anyone else who was not arrested by Mallette during the 28 years he roamed the woods of Jackson County as a game warden didn't break the game and fishing laws.

Mallette, who has lived in Vancleave all his life, had an uncanny knack of being there when an illegal deer or turkey was killed or someone telephoned for fish.

Starting in October, 1954, Mallette's hard work and dedication were recognized both statewide and nationally. He ended his career as the district manager of 15 counties, overseeing 31 officers and three supervisors.

He was more recently recognized for his hard work by Jackson County Ducks Unlimited who selected him Sportsman of the Year and honored him at their annual recognition banquet at Thunder's in Pascagoula.

"Each year we select someone who has contributed to the preservation and conservation of game and fish in our area," said Jolly McCarty of Ducks Unlimited. Snooks Mallette certainly deserves recognition for his years of contribution to our goals. He is a great sportsman and a fine individual."

As a boy, Mallette hunted with his father, George Mallette, and learned to appreciate wild game and to love hunting. It was his ability to stalk a deer without making a sound or lure a gobbler so close he could catch him with his big hands that he would later use to stalk the illegal hunters of deer and turkey.

"I tried to continue hunting after I started working as a game warden but I soon discovered that wouldn't work," Mallette said. "I decided that my trophies would be the headlighters, those who killed a doe, a turkey out of season, even those who fished or hunted without a license. After all, that is what paid our salaries."

After graduation from Vancleave High School, Mallette worked at the paper mill and shipyard but, "I didn't like that so I went in the logging business. When I became a game warden, I had to use money from my business to live. We were only paid about $200 a month back then.

"When I started I had no training, but I worked with a man who knew a lot about game laws, who was reasonable and had good common sense." Mallette credits the man, Jesse Watson, with pointing his career in the right direction.

But before Mallette would accept the job, he had a long talk with his father, an avid hunter.

"Daddy offered me some good advice," Mallette said. "He said 'if you are going to do any job, do a good job. Be fair and show no favors.'"

"But what if I catch you breaking the law?" Mallette asked his father.

"Treat me like you would treat anyone else who breaks the law. I carry my fine money in this pocket," his father said, patting his pants pocket.

It wasn't long before Mallette would empty his father's fine pocket.

"A group of hunters called me to check a deer daddy had shot. It was a buck but illegal because of its size. I knew I was being put on the spot by the other hunters. I knew if I let it go by, I could not do my job.

"It was a hard thing to do but I arrested by daddy. He was pleased and told me I had done the right thing."

From that day, Mallette never hesitated to arrest anyone he caught violating the law.

He would spend days at a time watching a turkey blind or waiting for the owner of an illegal fish net to claim his catch.

"I would tell my wife not to look for me until she saw me coming," he said. "Sometimes I would be gone for three or four days at a time."

Mallette and the former Sabra Lee Fairley, his wife of 50 years, raised 10 children, all of whom still live in this area.

With retirement, Mallette is attempting to repay her for the time she spent waiting on him.

"I enjoy my retirement," he said. "Whatever my wife wants to do or wherever she wants to go, we do it."

Mallette is getting to do some of the hunting he missed during the 28 years he was game warden and also operates the water-driven gristmill that has been on his property on Sims Pond Road since before the Civil War.

"I may write a book," Mallette mused. "I have a lot of game warden tales."

"I remember the time I caught a man in a turkey blind the day before the season opened. He told the judge it was someone else's blind and the judge told me to go back the next day and check it."

Mallette was at the blind before daylight the next day as three hunters walked by it.

"Vertis Ramsay, one of the trio, said, 'Look at that. It's a wonder Snooks Mallette hasn't already caught that fellow.'"

"We had a good laugh when I told Vertis about it later," Mallette said.

Mallette recalled the time he slipped up behind a hunter who was showing his just bagged illegal turkey to two other hunters.

"There's one that Snooks Mallette won't get," the illegal hunter bragged.

"Look behind you," another hunter advised.

Mallette recalled the time he was checking fishing licenses on the river. A woman who had a license and two boys who didn't require licenses were fishing. The man in the boat claimed he wasn't fishing but Mallette noticed a reel at his feet and a line in the water.

"I started a conversation and waited," Mallette said. "Pretty soon, a fish got on his line and I just kept waiting. The fish kept pulling and one of the boys couldn't stand it any more. He grabbed the man's pants and said, 'Daddy, you got a fish.'

"The man laughed and said, 'just give me my ticket.'

"I said, 'good, that's what I've been waiting for.' I don't like to see anyone violate the law in front of children. It teaches them how to violate the law and get away with it."

Mallette had his bouts with telephone fishermen.

He recalled the time he lay on the bank of the river for hours before a cabin boat showed up and began telephoning fish as it moved down stream.

"I launched my boat and followed them and got on board his boat before he saw me. 'You are under arrest for telephoning fish,'" I said.

"Where's the telephone?" he asked.

"Under that box you are sitting on."

Another time, Mallette was chasing a boat with three telephoners down Dog River and they threw the telephone into the water.

"It was about 30 feet deep and I didn't want to go in after it so I offered them a bargain. They could plead guilty to telephoning and keep their equipment but they said 'no way'."

"When I get the telephone out, here won't be any bargains," Mallette warned.

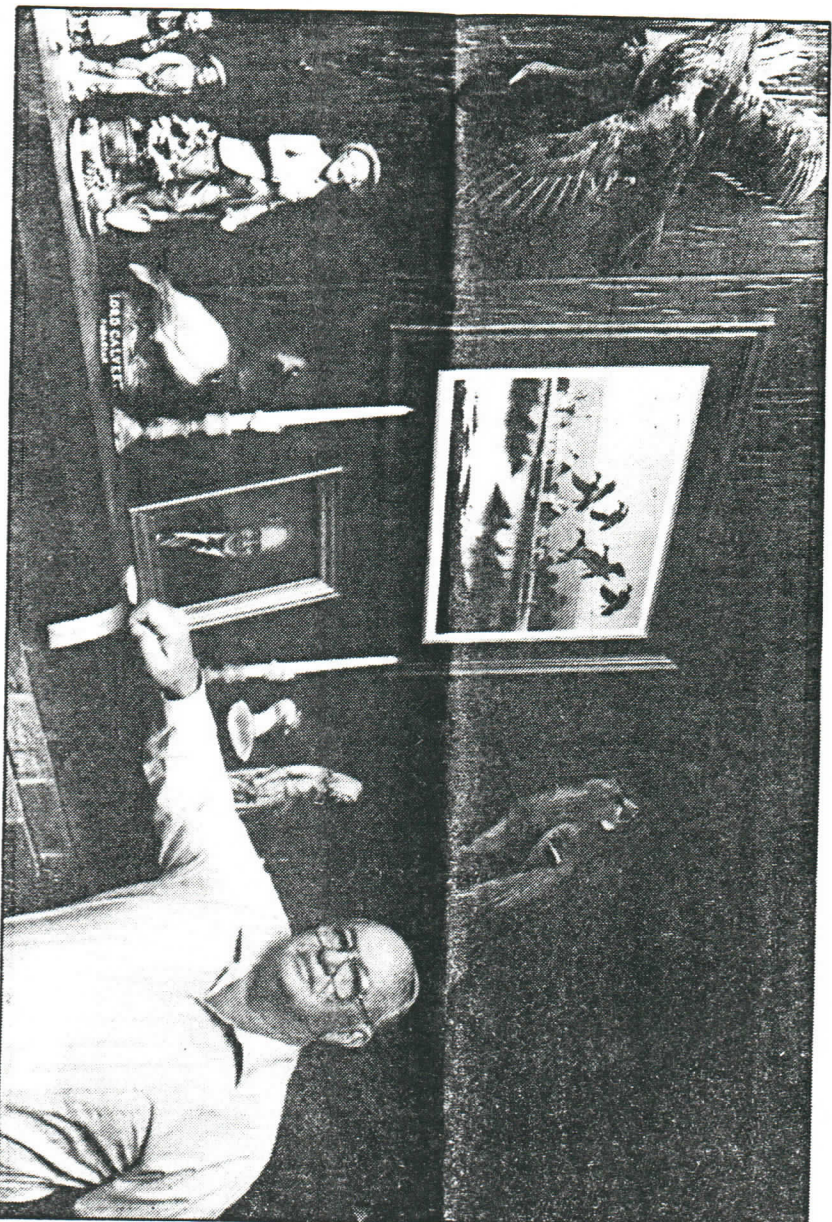

He got it out, they paid the fine and lost their boat, motor and equipment.

"I caught a man with one duck too many," Mallette said. "He lamed the mallard was tame, but he had used it as a decoy and shot it because he couldn't catch her. The judge didn't believe him either."

During part of his career,

Mallette has an assistant who was even better than he in tracking illegal hunters.

He was a dog which Mallette raised from a pup and trained.

Ducks Unlimited added to Mallette's collection of memories

One hunter turned the table on Mallette.

"I waited by his car, which was parked on the management area a day before turkey season, for hours," Mallette said. "I finally saw him run to the car and put a gun in the back seat. 'You are under arrest,' I told him, and reached behind the seat for the gun. I pulled out a strick that looked like a gun."

"When I turned around the man was rolling on the ground laughing, so I got down and rolled and laughed with him."

"I loved my job," Mallette said. "Some of the most enjoyable times came working on the river. When I would get in my boat just at the break of day, the water was still and the air was cool. Every bend you would see something different. Maybe a fisherman running his lines, a hawk or turkey, a deer would swim the river, get on the sandbar, shake himself and disappear in the swamp."

"I was on Buzzard Lake late one afternoon just before dark. Everything was still, nobody to be seen. I saw half a hog come around the bend, his two front feet sticking straight up and I thought 'what in the world.' I looked around and when I looked back, the hog was gone.

"I thought, 'did this really happen?' Then I saw him, a 12- to 14-foot alligator taking his supper home."

Snooks Mallette has enough material for a dozen books.

STONE GROUND... Past and Present

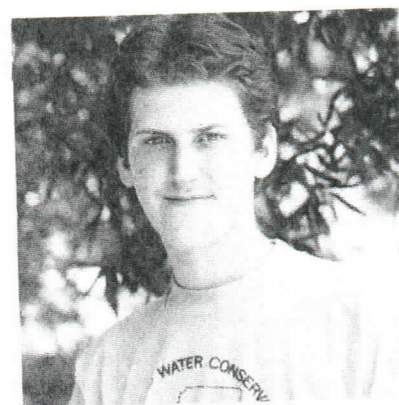

"Mom, Where does cornbread come from?" How many times have we heard questions such as this come from curious little minds? In today's fast paced "instant potatoes" society, we take a lot for granted. Sure, high technology is appreciated and makes life easier for us all. But sometimes it's nice to relax a bit, reminisce and enjoy studying the past. This story should bring a new awareness to both young and old of an old familiar site along with some history.

Jackson County is fortunate to have an authentic water-born grist mill in operation. For those who do not know what a grist mill is, let's explain. Grist mills were used for grinding corn and wheat into various by-products, such a flour, grits, cornmeal, and other staples during the late 1800's and early turn of the century. The mills were generally located on rivers or creeks where flowing water could be harnessed to turn the huge stone wheels of the mill.

This particular mill is located in north Jackson County near Vancleave and derives its power source not from a creek or river, but from a pond. Some of the history of this old homestead was provided by recorded deeds. The first deed to the place on record was to a W.E. David in 1850. There were two mill sites in operation here prior to and during the

The second annual Soil & Water Conservation Youth Camp sponsored by the Mississippi Association of Conservation Districts, Inc. was recently held at Mississippi State University June 28-July 2.

Brad Patterson, pictured above, represented the Jackson County Soil & Water Conservation District. Brad is a junior at Pascagoula High School where he is a member of the Beta Club and Mu Alpha Theta. He has received several awards including the Academic Achievement Award.

The participants were exposed to all aspects of soil and water conservation including cropland, grassland, woodland, and wildlife. They were also involved in many other activities including a boat excursion on the Tenn-Tom Waterway, a tour of "Historic Waverly Plantation", "take your pick tours", and other planned activities. The Conservation Youth Camp is an annual event. For information concerning next years camp, contact our office.

Your Home Lawn

Curlee Green, County Agent

Over the last two weeks I have looked at several lawns with grass dying. Many of the lawns I looked at had insect damage. I would like to share some information with you on insects in the home lawn.

The home lawn is an ideal environment for a number of insects and related creatures. Some of these animals may be classified as pests; however, many are harmless while some are beneficial. You should be able to tell the damaging ones from the non-injurious types. This can be difficult, because insect damage may be mistaken for disease, drought, or fertilizer problems. To help you correctly recognize pests, here are descriptions of common lawn insects.

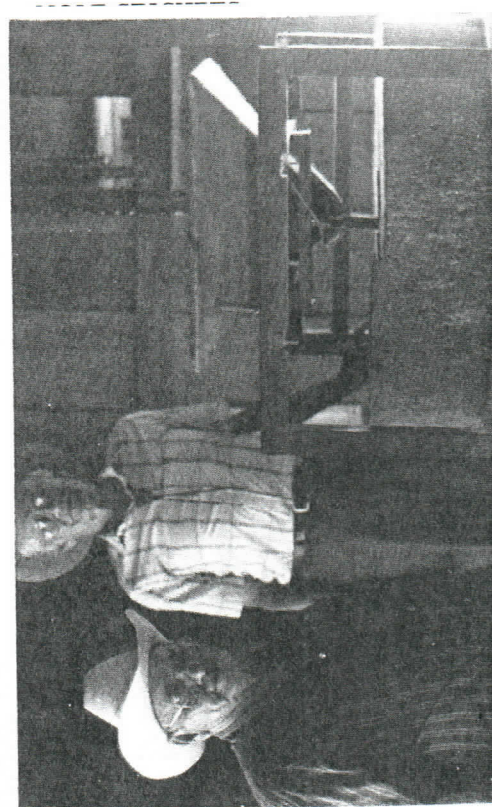

FALL ARMYWORMS

The fall armyworm is damaging during the larval, or worm, phase. It uses chewing-type mouthparts to defoliate the grass blades. You should be on the lookout for this pest, especially if you have Bermudagrass, around the first or second week of June in south Mississippi. During high outbreak years, it may feed on centipede or St. Augustine; however, this is rare.

Fall armyworm adults (moths) are active at night. At this time the female deposits egg masses containing about 150 eggs on grass stems. Females can lay 1,000 eggs. After hatching, the young larvae feed as a group on the grass blades. The damage at this stage is slight and often goes unnoticed by the homeowner. As the larvae increase in size, they require more food and can strip a lawn in a very short time. To prevent this, you should make regular lawn inspections during this time of year.

Select locations at random throughout the lawn and examine the grass by rubbing it back and forth with your hand. Then part the grass and examine the ground. If you see a coiled light tan or green to nearly black caterpillar, you probably have fall armyworm. Control is much easier if you find worms early. You also keep lawn damage to a minimum.

Civil War. It was sometime in the 1880's that another gentleman by the name of Evander Fairley purchased and operated the mill until 1910. In the 1920's, Victor Sims acquired the old homeplace and refurbished the mill in 1932. Mr. Sims sold the property in 1943 to its current owner, James K. Mallette, better known to most as "Snooks". Mr. Mallette is a retired Game and Fish Official of 28 years (1954-1982) with the Mississippi Dept. of Wildlife Conservation. It has been said that Snooks was the "Marshall Dillon" of game wardens. Mr. Mallette actually ran the mill for about a year, when in 1945 heavy rains caused the dam to fail, ceasing the mill's operation.

Following Hurricane Camille in 1969, he obtained the help of its former owner, Victor Sims to help re-engineer and once again put the mill back into operation. After much hard work and reclamation of the various equipment, the mill was again in operation in 1970. Some may wonder just how old is this mill? The stones are approximately 200 years old, and were probably cut somewhere in France since most stone work originated there. The turbine is approximately 100 years old. In 1969, the turbine wheel was re-cased by the Mennonite Boiler Works in Mobile, Alabama. When Snooks asked for the bill, the man simply replied, "If a bill is ever sent, you can pay the price". It is this attitude of a friend helping a friend that makes the world a better place to live. Bartering of goods for the services and commodities of others was a common and good practice at one time. Perhaps we could learn from the past about friendship and good deeds.

The mill operates on the principal that the weight of water falling past a turbine or water wheel rotates a large shaft. The shaft is connected to a large pulley which is mounted on the grinding rocks. When the flood gate is opened the power of water is unleashed, spinning the massive sandstone grinding rocks with effortless ease. Both the bottom and top rocks are approximately 3 feet in diameter, with the top rock weighing in excess of 500 pounds, while the bottom rock approximately 300 pounds. The top rock is 15 inches thick while the bottom rock, 7 inches thick. With this extreme weight, one would think it impossible for water to spin these huge rocks; not so! They spin, and with amazing speed! Once the small kernels of corn or wheat are fed into the hopper, the stones do the rest, pulverizing the toughest kernels into the finest of meals from corn or wheat. It is a fascinating operation to say the least.

As the grist mill operates today, there seems to be a presence in the old mill house of those now long gone. From the Frenchmen who cut the rocks to the blacksmiths who cast and shaped the turbine.

Even today, people visit while standing around waiting to have their corn ground into meal just as they did during the Civil War. If this mill could only talk, it would fascinate us all.

from Somerset News
England

January 2012

The Somerset historian who gave a fresh insight into the legend of King Arthur has been recognised for services to heritage with an MBE in the New Year Honours List.

Geoffrey Ashe, 88, of Glastonbury started the idea that there could be a historical basis for Arthur at a time when there was very little interest among scholars and historians. He has succeeded in convincing many that he was a real leader, not just the stuff of legend. His first book, King Arthur's Avalon (Collins 1957), went into the question of who Arthur might have been and captured public interest and The Discovery of King Arthur (Doubleday 1985) put forward his view as to who the real Arthur was.

Pat Mallette Ashe's
husband - She's author of Mallette books

•••Mr Ashe said: "We should never forget that there was a real king – there is even a letter to him in existence. I have described how it all starts – a British king, who is on record (mid 5th century)."

Mr Ashe said he received the news of his MBE with "very great satisfaction and very great joy" and saw it as an affirmation of his work. He said he was "deeply appreciative of all who had supported him".

Mr Ashe has written 26 books and continues his work at Chalice Orchard, at the foot of Glastonbury Tor, where he has lived for 37 years.

Geoffrey's youngest son, Brendan Ashe, said of his father: "He has teased King Arthur out from a mythical romantic haze into the broad daylight of a British chieftain, with a real career and concrete deeds.

"This is not just academic. Arthur touches on our notions of Britishness, of how we stopped fighting and reconciled under a banner of courage, duty, right, and the urge to protect

Antique mill still grinds

Shortly after Snooks and Sabra Mallette married in 1937, they found a perfect place to raise their family in Vancleave. It had 44 acres of land, a house, a pond, a branch and water-powered grist mill.

Today, 53 years, 11 children and 26 grandchildren later, Singing River Electric consumer-members Snooks and Sabra are still loving their homestead and preserving a piece of history.

After Snooks retired in the early 70s he began a restoration project. "I was looking for a hobby when I retired, and this seemed like the perfect thing to do," Snooks said.

In 1972 he began rebuilding the old mill. "It had been inoperable for 22 years," said Snooks. "There was a lot of work that had to be done to make it grind again."

The old mill house was torn down and a new cedar mill house (resembling the old one) built in its place, the turbine fixed and the grinding stones sharpened just for starters.

On Nov. 10, 1973, the dam was opened and the stones began grind-ding corn into corn meal once again.

"I enjoy the mill," Snooks said. "Sometimes I just sit and watch it work."

But Snooks' real joy is sharing the mill with family, friends, school children and senior citizens. "I like showing the mill and telling others about it," Snooks said.

Snooks hasn't introduced electricity into the mill for this reason. "When school children make a visit to the mill I show them how the mill was run before electricity," explained Snooks. "Life without electricity is a new concept to them. Seeing the water-powered mill gives them a sense of something (electricity) that we all tend to take for granted."

"Whenever senior citizen groups come out here to visit, the grist mill usually brings back a few memories for them."

Snooks and Sabra bought the homestead without electricity in 1943. Two years later the Mallettes got power. "I can still remember Singing River's trucks coming down the hill to bring us electricity," Sabra said. "The first thing we did

Singing River Electric members Snooks and Sabra Mallette have given new life to the renovated grist mill, home to grinding stones that are over 150 years old.

was get indoor plumbing!"

Snooks continued, "The first set of lights we had just hung down from the ceiling. You twisted on the light to get it to come on."

Since the grist mill is water powered, Snooks doesn't sell his flour, wheat flour, corn meal or grits commercially.

"Because the mill still depends on water power to operate, I'm not always sure when the mill can be run," Snooks explained. "When we have dry weather I don't have enough water to turn the turbine. When that happens I can't grind." Mostly the Mallettes just grind for family and friends.

The mill sits on Mill Branch. "At one time there were three mills working on Mill Branch, but that was years ago."

Snooks explained that when he gets ready to grind, the first thing he does is open the pond's dam. Then the water flows through a pipe and into the turbine. As the water spins the turbine, the turbine turns the grinding stones. The corn is poured into a 500-pound grinding stone. There the corn is slowly ground into meal and sent into the receiving trough.

The stones are important to the taste of the meal and flour. As the stones turn and grind the meal, they warm the meal, but do not make it hot. And, the speed at which the stones turn is also important to the meal's taste.

"The man that lived here when the Civil War began was deferred from the South's army so he could stay at the mill and grind wheat and corn for the war effort."

Sabra Mallette

"If the stones turn too fast your meal won't be very good. This mill grinds slow," Snooks said. The mill will grind 100 pounds of corn meal in about an hour and a half.

The stones that grind the wheat and corn are over 150 years old. "They were brought here from the mountains of Virginia before the Civil War," Sabra said. "The man that lived here when the Civil War began was deferred from the South's army so he could stay at the mill and grind wheat and corn for the war effort."

In the early 1900s Sabra's grandfather owned the homestead and ran the mill. She grew up around the mill and on the pond. "Eventually he sold the place so he and grandma could move to Wiggins. After Snooks and I married we couldn't believe our luck when we found the place for sale. We had to have it back in the family," Sabra said.

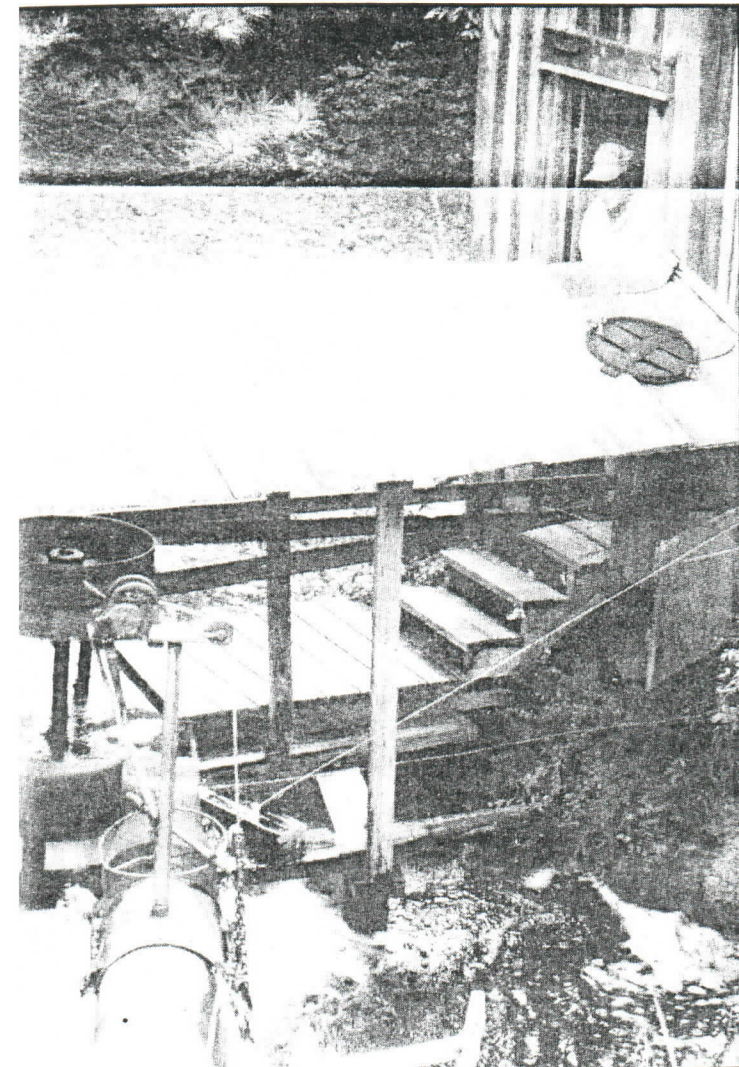

Red Cross honors SREPA donors

Recently Lisa Oleson of the Red Cross Gulf Coast Region Blood Program recognized Singing River Electric Power Association employees for their excellent support of the Red Cross Blood Program.

Singing River Electric was the recipient of an award for having the second greatest unit increase in the Gulf Coast Region. This region stretches across the Mississippi and Alabama coasts and from southwest Georgia to the Florida panhandle.

In 1989 Singing River Electric hosted 10 blood drives in the Lucedale, Gautier and Sand Hill offices. Singing River Electric employees donated over 275 pints of blood at these drives.

"We appreciate all the employees who have given," Lucedale office Blood Program Coordinator Mike Smith said. "Singing River Electric will continue to support the Red Cross by encouraging our employees to give."

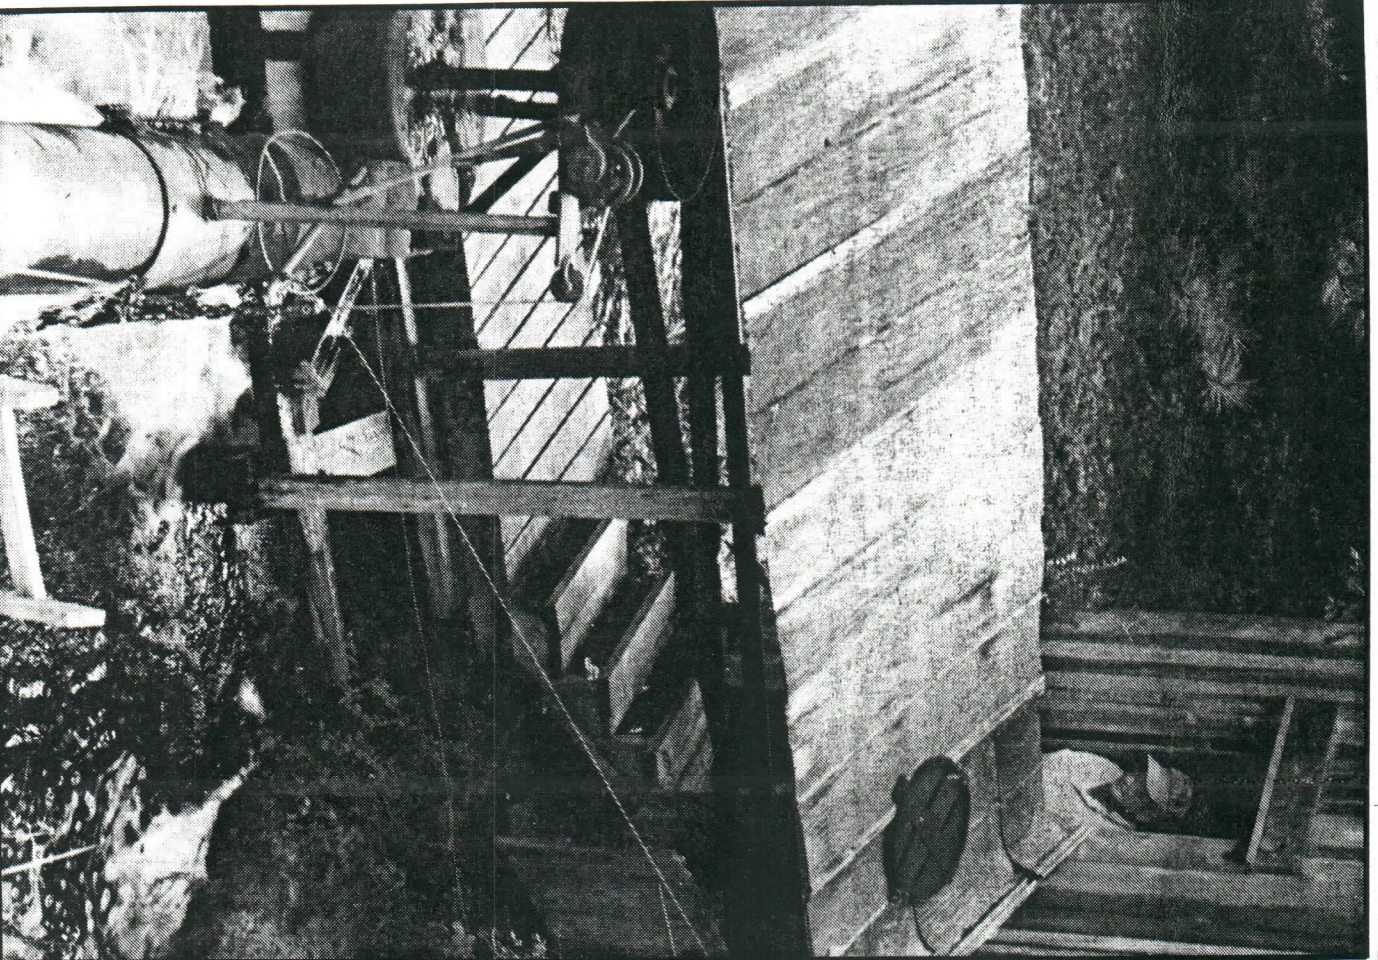

Snooks Mallette checks his water-powered turbine as the 500-pound stone in the grist mill grinds corn into meal.

Singing River Electric members Snooks and Sabra Mallette have given new life to the renovated grist mill, home to grinding stones that are over 150 years old.

“The man that lived here when the Civil War began was deferred from the South’s army so he could stay at the mill and grind wheat and corn for the war effort.”

Seven generations at family reunion

Associated Press

George L. and Cynthia Mallette married in about 1880 and had eight sons and two daughters.

About 400 of their descendants got together Saturday under the shade of a tractor shed and pecan trees on the farm of Glynn Mallette, a grandson of George and Cynthia.

The farm is in Jackson County's Fort Bayou community.

In all, seven generations were represented, ranging in age from five months to 93 years. Raymond Mallette, at 93, is the last surviving child of George and Cynthia.

"It's hard to believe that all these people came from two people," said Glynn's wife, Sylvia.

Linda Horne, great-granddaughter of George and Cynthia, who also served as mistress of ceremonies, started the reunions last year after an absence of many years.

"I'd been away for 12 years, and I came back, and I didn't know half of my relatives," she said.

Last year 250 people showed up.

Glynn said they still have a long way to go before they get all the Mallettes. He estimated the family at 1,500, a lot for only 110 years. 6-71

DAR members visit griss mill for meeting

VANCLEAVE — The Duchess de Chaumont Chapter of Daughters of American Revolution met March 4 with the James K. Malletts in their nice country home in Vancleave.

Members viewed the griss mill grinding the cornmeal.

Regent Cecile Stephens led the group in the DAR Ritual.

Sandra East gave the president's general message followed by Mrs. Wright reading the Preamble to the Constitution.

Mrs. Stephens read an article on the FBI helping Moscow's organization in building a good type of SDI.

Debra Lockard was presented as a new member.

Mary Bradway was elected at the State DAR Convention as state regent.

Mrs. Stephens gave a report on Duchess de Chaumont Chapter receiving eight awards at the state convention.

The Duchess de Chaumont Chapter will sponsor a magnolia tree to be planted on the Avenue of Magnolias project in honor of James K. Mallett of Vancleave. It will be planted by the Interstate-10 area of east Escatawpa.

Committees discussed arrangements for annual DAR tea in April.

Hostesses were Nell Harris, Josie Torjusen, Flo Herndon, Jessie Mauldin and Maida Wright.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

On August the thirtieth the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Mallette was the scene of the happy celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

The beautiful oaks on the lawn was the proper setting for this joyous occasion, under which a bountiful picnic lunch was served at the noon hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Mallette have lived in three counties yet they have never lived more than ten miles from their present home. They have lived in the present home thirty three years. Green and Jackson counties then comprised George.

Those enjoying this day of memory with Mr. and Mrs. Mallette were: their children, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Miller of Semmes, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mallette of Birmingham, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Earle McClammy, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mallette all of Mobile, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stevens and Edgar Mallette of Lucedale. One son of Baltimore, Md., was unable to be here. There were ten grand children and two great grand children along with one hundred and thirty relatives and friends.

After the visitors were favored by Mr. and Mrs. Mallette with some selections from the old sacred harp song book, they departed with best wishes for a seventy fifth anniversary. Sept 9, 1938 Geo. G. Times

Longfellow scene of vows

Carolyn Jean Malley and David Samuel Ayers were united in marriage Oct. 2 in an afternoon wedding at The Longfellow House and Gardens on the beach in Pascagoula with the Rev. C.H. Stone Jr. officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Malley of Pascagoula, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ayers of Reserve, La.

Chris Miller provided a program of nuptial music at the organ, and offered vocal selections for the double ring ceremony. Directing the service was Carol Doggett, assisted by Cindy French.

Escorted by her brother, Ivy Malley, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza and Brussels lace over peau taffeta. The fitted bodice was designed with large pouf sleeves of lace, and a deep Bertha collar of the lace formed an off the shoulder effect. The A-line skirt and attached court train featured a deep scalloped hemline of the lace. Her cathedral length veil of illusion was attached to a wedding band of lace and silk flowers, and only jewelry was a diamond necklace, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a cascade of stephanotis entwined with green ivy and accented with three large white orchids.

Maid of honor was Elizabeth Parker of Pascagoula and bridesmaids were Karen Irby of Mobile, Ala., cousin of the bride; Kathy Balthrop of Knoxville, Tenn.; Tiffany Ayers and Aimee Ayers, daughters of the bridegroom, and Sharon Savell, all of Pascagoula. Flower girl was Natasha Wilks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Wilks Sr. of Gautier.

Kenneth Flint stood with his friend as best man and groomsmen were Harold Biggs of

Mr. and Mrs. David Samuel Ayers

Pascagoula, John England of Gautier, Jack Trocheset of Ocean Springs, and Kipper Thomas of Gulfport and Shannon McArthur of Lucedale, both nephews of the bridegroom. Ushers were Randy Malley of Pascagoula and Darren Webb of Moss Point, nephews of the bride.

A reception, directed by Joyce Pitts of Lucedale, cousin of the bride, followed on the upper floor of the Longfellow House. Assisting were Charlotte Abbott and Nancy Downing.

After a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, the couple is at home in Ocean Springs. On the eve of the wedding, a rehearsal supper was hosted by the parents of the bridegroom at the Evangeline Restaurant in Pascagoula.

ELIZABETH STARR AYERS

Daughter of David & Jeannie Ayers of Ocean Springs, was 5 years old on February 27, 1990. Grandparents are Ben C. & Mildred Ayers of Ocean Springs; Mrs. Olene Malley & the late Buster Malley of Escatawpa.

First teacher hails Mallette

To the Editor:

I have read with a great deal of interest the letters concerning Marland H. Mallette, who, along with some of his siblings and cousins, was one of my high school students at Vancleave many years ago.

He was a big ole teddy bear of a boy with a sunny disposition who was not alone trying to pull some caper in the classroom. He came from a large, warm, wonderful family who are all delightful to know. You might say they are characters with character.

Marland loved to announced to a crowd that I was his first grade teacher and then he would chuckle in that inimitable Mallette way.

I have been very proud of his life and his accomplishments and happy to have been his friend. Vertis and I shall miss him a lot. It is so good to see that people will pause long enough to remember and honor the life of a good man.

Mallette

The family of Mrs. M.H. (Marguerite) Mallette was recently suprised by a gift from Secretary of State Dick Molpus.

Molpus sent to the Moss Point family a Mississippi state flag that had flown over the State Capitol on March 26.

The flag was donated in memory of the late M.H. Mallette, superintendent of education in Jackson County from 1965-80. He died in February.

The flag was given to the family of Mrs. Mallette and children Beth Mallette, Betty Neal and M.H. "Butch" Mallette Jr. at the request of state Rep. Curt Hebert.

Thanks for the tributes

To the Editor:

Our family, on behalf of M.H. "Dubie" Mallette, deceased February 12, 1991, would like to thank you for the many wonderful tributes you have bestowed upon him.

For the letters to the editor, the letters from state officials, along with the state flag, the letters from individuals, the letters and oral statements from former students, the Moss

Point YMBC Outstanding Senior Citizen Award for 1991;

Our minister Rev. H.J. Hedgepeth and church Dantzler Memorial First Unitted Methodist;

All the churches throughout the Jackson County area that had "Dubie" on their prayer list; the many pastors that visited and prayed with him.

"Dubie" Mallette's life was an honorable, happy and wonderful memory.

We humbly thank you for helping to make this possible.

Of the 10 children born to the family's founding couple, only Raymond is still living. Others were Peter, Harry, Verta Lee Campbell, Tony, Annie Delandy, Fred, George, Hubert and Lester.

According to family chronicler Jeanne Brown, the Mallettes built their first home on the Old Fort Bayou Road just north of the area where Interstate-10 crosses. They later built a home a few miles north of there in the Fort Bayou community, where many of their descendants now live.

Many family members contributed to making the reunion a success, Mrs. Brown said, especially Glynn Mallette and Tammy Mallette. For a peek at the fun the family enjoyed, see the photos accompanying this article.

School District Homeowners Warned To Get Exemption Certificates Early

Applications for homestead exemption are being taken from eligible home owners in the Pascagoula Municipal Separate School District, city clerk Vincent Ros said today.

The district includes homes in the Pascagoula city limits and added territory in what was formerly the old Lyons School District and Bayou Casotte.

Deadline for filing is March 31, Ros said. The homestead exemption entitles those eligible to a 15 mill reduction in school taxes, he added.

A large number of homeowners failed to file for exemptions last year because of confusion concerning the new school district which was created July 1.

All applicants must bring a copy of last year's exemption or property deeds if filing for the first time.

Mallette

Hazel Mallette is the woman who keeps the Central Road Department on an even keel.

Conscientious, congenial, dedicated, prompt--all are adjectives used to describe the September employee of the month, but they only begin to tell the story.

Growing up in Vancleave, Hazel remembers a happy childhood with her parents, Albert and Ann Goff.

"My father was like the Pied Piper," she said. "Children loved him. When we would go on an outing, he always make room for other children who wanted to go along with us."

Her mother's care and concern for others was also a large influence, as Hazel spends a good bit of her spare time in church and volunteer work that mainly involves helping others.

She is willing to try anything, if there is a need. Before the days of full-time ambulance service, she answered a call for volunteers to man Rescue II.

"In the early 80's, I spent about a year accompanying EMT's on their calls," she said. "I took CPR, the defensive driver's course, and other medical courses."

She learned through that experience that "just being there" is one of the most important things you can do for anybody in any kind of need.

"My biggest joy is being around people, visiting shut-in's, and the sick," she said. "After my husband's illness, I feel like I know more what people need. The main thing is to show that you care, by being there, sending a card, calling them often, bringing food, cutting the grass. When someone's terminally ill, everything helps, but the main thing is people being there for you." (Hazel's husband, Jason, passed away in July. They were married 34 years.)

At work, Hazel enjoys working with the people of the Central Road Department. "I went to school with some of them," she said. "They are a great bunch."

As administrative secretary, she stays busy handling the telephone, office traffic, receiving reports, and maintenance records. A vo-tech computer course she took a year ago has been very helpful to her.

She has previously worked at E.R. Moore Co. in Ocean Springs, the Painter's Union in Biloxi and at Ingalls' pipe shop and central receiving departments.

Prior to coming to Central Road four years ago, she worked as a secretary in the criminal division of the Jackson County Justice Court.

Away from work, Hazel enjoys family activities. She has four children, Ann Inabinette, Debbie Holden, Eugene and Hal Mallette and six grandchildren.

Hazel is a member of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Vancleave, where she teaches Sunday School to kindergartners, sings in the choir and serves on the pastoral commission. Past service has included offices in the PTA and various other church commissions.

As for the future, Hazel would like one day to visit the New England states. "I am fascinated with Maine, the lighthouses, the rocky seashore," she said.

JACKSON — Jackson County residents Ken Mallette and Kyle Mallette were among the 20 selected participants in the second annual Mississippi Young Cattlemen's Leadership Conference and Tour held recently. Participants represented the future leaders of the cattle industry in Mississippi and were from all areas of the state.

Topics included overviews of the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association and the Mississippi Cattle Industry Board; each of these organizations' involvement in the cattle industry; issues affecting the cattle industry and the establishment of agricultural financial records.

Tours in Jackson included the Mississippi Capitol, with a visit from Rep. Rita Martinson, a member of the House Agriculture Committee; and the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum, including a visit with Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce, Jim Buck Ross. Also on the Jackson tour was a visit with the Jitney Jungle Grocery Stores meat department. This enabled the cattlemen to gain knowledge of the meat industry from a retailer's perspective.

Other tours in the Jackson area included the Brown Loam Experiment Station and the Hinds Community College Bull Test Station, both located near Raymond; Black Bull Cattle Company near Benton; U.S. Cattle Corporation at Vaiden and EE Hereford Ranch at Winona.

Participants represented the future leaders of the cattle industry in Mississippi and were from all areas of the state.

Topics addressed included overviews of the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association, Mississippi Cattle Industry Board and each of these organizations involvement in the cattle industry.

Also discussed were issues affecting the cattle industry and the establishment of agricultural financial records.

Tours in Jackson included the Mississippi Capitol, with a visit from Rep. Rita Martinson, a member of the House Agriculture Committee; and the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum, including a visit with Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce, Jim Buck Ross.

Also on the Jackson tour was a visit with the Jitney Jungle Grocery Stores meat department. This enabled the cattlemen to gain knowledge of the meat industry from a retailer's perspective.

Production tours in the Jackson area included the Brown Loam Experiment Station and the Hinds Community College Bull Test Station, both located near Raymond. The cattle producers also visited Black Bull Cattle Co. near Benton, U.S. Cattle Corporation at Vaiden and EE Hereford Ranch at Winona.

For more information concerning activities of the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association, call 1-354-8951 or write 121 North Jefferson, Jackson, MS 39201.

Miss Mallett bride of Mr. Baricev

VANCELEAVE — Myrna Lynne Mallett became the bride of Paul Anthony Baricev Aug. 9 in an afternoon ceremony at Mt. Pleasant Methodist Church of Vancleave, with the Rev. Andy Cotton of Yazoo City officiating, assisted by the Rev. Allen Dearing. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David (Coy Ann) Mallett of Vancleave, and the bridegroom, a resident of Wade, is the son of Versie Josey of Wade and Tony Baricev of Biloxi.

Nuptial music for the double ring, candlelight ceremony was provided by Dan Havens, pianist, and Jenny Havens, vocalist. Lynne Tillman of Vancleave, aunt of the bride, directed the service.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore formal angelskin satin and Venise lace, its fitted bodice encrusted with seed pearls and sequins and designed with a mandarin collar, sheer yoke applied with the lace, and a sweetheart neckline.

The Renaissance sleeves were pouffed and shirred at the shoulders, and tapered to lace-appliqued sheer ending in scalloped cuffs at the wrists.

The antebellum skirt swept to a demi-cathedral train. Her headpiece of lace and pearls was designed in the Mary Queen of Scots fashion, and held in place a fingertip veil.

She carried cascading white daisies, yellow roses, baby's breath and ivy, tied with white and yellow streamers ending in love knots.

Ellen Cotton of Yazoo City was matron of honor and maid of honor was Jerusha Tyndall of Pascagoula, cousin of the bride. Brenda Ross of Vancleave was bridesmaid.

Jeff Cochran of Wade stood with his cousin as best man, and groomsmen were Greg Marshall of Pascagoula and David Fortenberry of Fort Walton, Fla. Ushers were Rufus Mallett, brother of the bride, and Troy Goff of Wade, cousin of the bridegroom.

Attendant children were Chrissie Tillman of Vancleave, cousin of the bride, and Shelby Howarth of Wade, niece of the bridegroom, flower girls, and Ryan Cochran of Wade, cousin of the bridegroom, ring bearer.

A reception followed at the church, where guests were registered by Gayla Howarth, sister of the bridegroom. Rice bags were distributed by Jocelyn Ross of Vancleave and Sara Anne Cotton of Yazoo City.

Assisting were Ms. Tillman and Fay Allen of Mobile, Ala., aunts of the bride; Sarah Tyndall of Pascagoula, cousin of the bride; Paula Goff of Wade, aunt of the bridegroom, and Jane Pritchett, Margaret Rae Davis, Pat Vickery, Diny Davis and Linda Backs, all of Vancleave.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple is at home in Mobile, Ala. On the eve of the wedding, a rehearsal dinner was hosted by the parents of the bridegroom at the church.

Of the 10 children born to the family's founding couple, only Raymond is still living. Others were Peter, Harry, Verta Lee Campbell, Tony, Annie Delandy, Fred, George, Hubert and Lester.

According to family chronicler Jeane Brown, the Mallettes built their first home on the Old Fort Bayou Road just north of the area where Interstate-10 crosses. They later built a home a few miles north of there in the Fort Bayou community, where many of their descendants now live.

Many family members contributed to making the reunion a success, Mrs. Brown said, especially Glynn Mallette and Tammy Mallette. For a peek at the fun the family enjoyed, see the photos accompanying this article.

Antique mill still grinds

Shortly after Snooks and Sabra Mallette married in 1937, they found the perfect place to raise their family in Vanceleave. It had 44 acres of land, a house, a pond, a branch and a water-powered grist mill.

Today, 53 years, 11 children and 26 grandchildren later, Singing River Electric consumer-members Snooks and Sabra are still loving their homestead and preserving a piece of history.

After Snooks retired in the early 1970s he began a restoration project. "I was looking for a hobby when I retired, and this seemed like the perfect thing to do," Snooks said.

In 1972 he began rebuilding the grist mill. "It had been inoperable for 22 years," said Snooks. "There was a lot of work that had to be done to make it grind again."

The old mill house was torn down and a new cedar mill house (resembling the old one) built in its place, the turbine fixed and the grinding stones sharpened just for starters.

On Nov. 10, 1973, the dam was opened and the stones began grinding corn into corn meal once again.

"I enjoy the mill," Snooks said. "Sometimes I just sit and watch it work."

But Snooks' real joy is sharing the mill with family, friends, school children and senior citizens. "I like showing the mill and telling others about it," Snooks said.

Snooks hasn't introduced electricity into the mill for this reason.

"When school children make a visit to the mill I show them how the mill was run before electricity," explained Snooks. "Life without electricity is a new concept to them. Seeing the water-powered mill gives them a sense of something (electricity) that we all tend to take for granted."

"Whenever senior citizen groups come out here to visit, the grist mill usually brings back a few memories for them."

Snooks and Sabra bought the homestead without electricity in 1943. Two years later the Mallettes got power. "I can still remember Singing River's trucks coming down the hill to bring us electricity," Sabra said. "The first thing we did was get indoor plumbing!"

Snooks continued, "The first set of lights we had just hung down from the ceiling. You twisted on the light to get it to come on."

Since the grist mill is water powered, Snooks doesn't sell his flour, wheat flour, corn meal or grits commercially.

"Because the mill still depends on water power to operate, I'm not always sure when the mill can be run," Snooks explained. "When we have dry weather I don't have enough water to turn the turbine. When that happens I can't grind." Mostly the Mallettes just grind for family and friends.

The mill sits on Mill Branch. "At one time there were three mills working on Mill Branch, but that was years ago."

Snooks explained that when he gets ready to grind, the first thing he does is open the pond's dam. Then the water flows through a pipe and into the turbine. As the water spins the turbine, the turbine turns the grinding stones. The corn is poured into a 500-pound grinding stone. There the corn is slowly ground into meal and sent into the receiving trough.

The stones are important to the taste of the meal and flour. As the stones turn and grind the meal, they warm the meal, but do not make it hot. And, the speed at which the stones turn is also important to the meal's taste.

"If the stones turn too fast your meal won't be very good. This mill grinds slow," Snooks said. The mill will grind 100 pounds of corn meal in about an hour and a half.

The stones that grind the wheat and corn are over 150 years old. "They were brought here from the mountains of Virginia before the Civil War," Sabra said. "The man that lived here when the Civil War began was deferred from the South's army so he could stay at the mill and grind wheat and corn for the war effort."

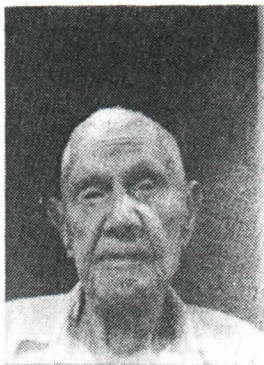

In the early 1900s Sabra's grandfather owned the homestead and ran the mill. She grew up around the mill and on the pond. "Eventually he sold the place so he and grandmama could move to Wiggins. After Snooks and I married we couldn't believe our luck when we found the place for sale. We had to have it back in the family," Sabra said.

Vol 44, No. 7

July 1989

Charles Mallett is the Naval Home's oldest resident, having been born 15 February 1890, in Carlisle, Indiana. When he was a young boy, his family moved to Oklahoma, close to an Indian reservation. He worked on a cattle ranch until he was 27 years old.

He enlisted in the United States Navy 31 May 1917 and was honorably discharged 24 August 1919 at the conclusion of World War I. Mr. Mallett served in USS NASHVILLE and USS BOGGS during his wartime enlistment.

Mr. Mallett reenlisted 23 May 1923 as a fireman first class and served until he was transferred to the Fleet Reserve 26 August 1938 as a Machinist's Mate First Class. During this time he served in submarines, auxiliary ships, various shore stations, a hospital ship, and just about every type of combat ship in the Navy.

During the national emergency just prior to World War II, Mr. Mallett was recalled to active duty on 29 May 1940 in connection with the recommissioning of destroyers. He served in DORAN, DENEBOLA, and ALBATROSS; and, while in ALBATROSS, he received his permanent rating as Chief Motor Machinist's Mate.

In July 1943, Chief Mallett reported to the Amphibious Force Training Base at Camp Bradford, Virginia. For the next two years his duty was in amphibious training. In 1946 he was returned to the Fleet Reserve, and on 1 April 1951 he was retired as Chief Engineman upon completion of 30 years of service.

After retirement Chief Mallett worked 14 years under Civil Service. An article in the press extolled Chief Mallett's expertise, noting that a $7,000 Monarch Speed Lathe "designed for tooling, facing and boring accurate surfaces and for cutting of precision threads - unexcelled for light, fine, fast work" is kept in top condition by "men like Charles Mallett" who know the machine's capacity and thus never overload it. The article concludes, "That's why this Monarch Speed Lathe in Shop 06 (Naval Repair Facility, San Diego) stands for a $7,000 plus factor in the Naval Repair Facility's work output. Conservation of machinery, like money, pays dividends."

Chief Mallett entered the United States Naval Home 19 April 1984.

RP/3 ISFALT WEDS

Mr. and Mrs. Isfalt

Elaine C. Jordan and Larry E. Isfalt exchanged wedding vows May 20, 1989, at the Naval Home Chapel. Chaplain Hoyt Swann officiated at the ceremony. Isfalt is the Religious Program Specialist at the Naval Home.

The bride's daughters, Rachel and Stose Jordan, attended her, as did the bridegroom's sister Tammy. Best man was David A. Mason, father of the groom. James R. Ezell, the bride's brother, served as groomsman; ring bearer was James E. Necaise. Music was provided by Naval Home organist, Sherry Daniel.

After a wedding trip to Memphis, Tennessee, the couple will make their home in Biloxi, Mississippi.

FAREWELL RECEPTION

Residents and staff gathered in the Residents' Reception Room Wednesday, June 21st, to say goodbye to Michelle Kutner, therapeutic recreation intern, and Sheila Lundmark, secretary in the administration office. Michelle and Cindy Meeks arrived in the spring the Governor noted, just in time for beautiful weather on the Gulf Coast and a chance to ride to Oxford, Mississippi, for the State Senior Games and bring back the "gold."

Captain Ferry presented Michelle with a Letter of Appreciation and a Naval Home coffee cup. Michelle remarked that the Home has a fine program of activities, and she urged all residents to get involved and to stay involved.

Sheila Lundmark has worked as secretary and all-round helper in the Naval Home administration office since 2 March 1987. She and her husband in the United States Air Force received plaudits and awards from the City of Biloxi for their many volunteer services this spring. They are now on their way to a station in Germany.

The Governor presented her with a letter of Appreciation (which, he said, she was required neither to compose or to type), thanking her for serving above and beyond the position's requirements. CWO 3 Wheeler, acting executive officer, presented her with an autographed picture of the Home. Mrs. Fran Wren, Administrative Officer, presented her with a Naval Home plaque.

Cake, cookies, nuts, and punch were served by the Recreation Services following the farewells.

Mallette shares his gristmill, stories

By BETTY WALLACE
THE SUN HERALD

Seize a blue-sky day and take a drive down a gravel lane called Mill Pond Road in Vance. The moment you hear the bump-bump of your tires rolling over a wooden bridge, you will see a gristmill on one side of the road, a millpond on the other, and Snooks Mallette's home just ahead.

The serene house has a front porch with rocking chairs that overlook the pond. The pond is home to cypress trees, beavers, an old johnboat and at least one very large bass. The gristmill, made of rough-cut timbers and a tin roof, sits on Mill Creek.

Mallette says he grinds wheat flour, cornmeal and grits, but he does not sell it commercially. Operating the gristmill is more of a personal pleasure, a hobby, but he is not stingy with it. He shares his hobby with school kids, friends and family. Church groups also visit the mill.

"They have a picnic up on the hill and really like to hear my stories," Mallette said.

To crank up the gristmill, Mallette opens a sluice gate in the millpond dam that lets water flow through a pipe into Mill Creek. The force of the rushing water turns the water wheels of the mill. The turning wheels transport the power through gears to a vertical spindle. A large millstone of 500 pounds revolves on the spindle just above a stationary stone. The stones have grooves on the facing sides. The space between the stones can be adjusted to determine how coarse the grain will be ground.

Mallette pours clean, whole-kernel yellow corn into a wooden funnel-shaped hopper. The corn trickles through a spindle-hole in the top millstone, which spins to grind against the bottom stone. Then "Cornmeal" appears below the stones in a wooden chute. Simple gravity takes over which allows the cornmeal to fall into a wooden trough known as a meal chest. Mallette grips a steel scoop and shovels the meal into storage bags.

It is a process dating back to the first century. This ancient method of grinding with a water-powered gristmill is slow. Some people say the slow grinding makes the taste and texture of the meal better. It can take more than an hour to grind 100 pounds of corn. However, Mallette at 87 years of age, has plenty of stories to fill the time.

Snooks Mallette built the current gristmill at his home in 1973. His wife's grandparents owned an earlier mill that was built prior to the Civil War on the same location. Mallette only operates the mill for himself and friends today.

He married Sabe, nee Sabra Lee Ottis Fairley, in 1937. She was 19 and he was 23 when they joined to start a legacy of 11 children, 26 grandchildren and 28 great-grandkids.

"Anybody who has not had a great-grandchild has really missed out," Mallette said. "We had 75 members of the family at our 65th wedding anniversary party. Our marriage has lasted this long because I let Sabe call-the-shots, and she does not call any bad shots. And she is the best person to live with."

Snooks and Sabe bought the property on which the mill is located in 1943 from Victor Sims. They lived on the property for two years before they ever had electricity.

The original gristmill was built sometime before the civil war. The millstones, brought to Vance from the mountains of Virginia, are more than 160 years old.

The miller and owner before the war was W.E. David. He left on horseback at age 17 for Alexandria, La., to join the Confederate Army. The soldiers told David they would pardon him from the army if he would trade the fine steed he rode in on for an old worn-down mare. He returned home to grind wheat and corn for the war effort. There were more than 20,000 community mills operating in the United States by the mid 1800s.

In the early 1900s Sabe's grandfather owned the property and ran the mill, which he sold and moved to Wiggins. Sabe and Snooks were lucky to find that when they were ready to buy, the owner was ready to sell the place where she grew up.

Snooks and Sabe had a stroke of bad luck when their house burned in 1969.

They decided to restore the mill and work began in 1972. The mill had not been used in more than 20 years. The date they opened the water gate and the millstones started to grind, Nov. 10, 1973, is painted on a wall inside the mill.

Snooks gets up from his chair to adjust the millstones for a coarser texture. He will grind the rest of the corn into grits. He pushes the meal to one side of the trough and changes his focus to a collection of containers on the floor.

"I picked up a baby rattle a while ago. I wonder if it got loose?" he says, as he shoves a large opaque jug forward. "There it is!"

Inside the jug, there is indeed a "baby's rattle." The rattler is of the infant-toy variety instead of the implied reptile. Snooks chuckles over the success of his prank.

Snooks is healthy, and he says "it's from working out in the open for 27½ years. And the Good Lord

This ancient method of grinding with a waterpowered gristmill is slow. Some people say the slow grinding makes the taste and texture of the meal better. It can take more than an hour to grind 100 pounds of corn.

has taken care of me."

Snooks worked outdoors as a Jackson County Game Warden for the State of Mississippi.

"You know," Snooks says, "I could walk through the woods where no one could hear me."

His dad, George Mallette, taught him how to stalk the wild game he hunted.

He said he was diligent in his pursuit of wildlife violators. He would sit for days at a time to catch the owner of an illegal fish net.

"I tried to be fair to everyone and show no favors," he said, adding that is what his dad advised him to do.

At times, he said he faced difficult situations and had to ticket people he knew. The day did come when he even had to fine his dad for shooting a buck that was too small.

His determination paid off, and he became the district manager of 15 counties before he retired in 1982. The Jackson County Ducks Unlimited Chapter recognized him as the 1986 Sportsman of the Year for his contribution to the preservation and conservation of game and fish.

Suddenly the wind bangs one of the rustic, rough-cut doors against the wall of the gristmill. A curious bumblebee buzzes through and the rushing water adds an enchanting sound.

Snooks, whose clothes have collected yellow powder from the ground corn, says, "We love it mighty well." He crosses the road to the millpond and closes the water gate. The water level in the pond is much lower. "It takes a lot of water, but I just wait for it to build back up." The millstones stop grinding. Snooks bags the cornmeal and grits one scoop at a time.

Jackson County

Warden didn't ticket mom, but nailed his dad

Game Warden Snooks Mallette became a legend in his own time. He wasn't a Buford Pusser sort, but he was one feared game warden, who lived and breathed the letter of the law. And the legend keeps growing. Mallette, 88, is writing a book.

I sat on his front porch a few miles from Vancleave and we rocked and talked. Mallette has tales to tell.

"Is the legend true that you're the only game warden who ever cited his own mother for a hunting violation?" I asked in hope of a stirring account.

by Gary Holland

The Sun Herald

"Nope," Mallette said. "Mama didn't hunt or fish."

I thought I had blown it.

"But I did ticket my daddy," he said. "He violated the law and killed an illegal buck right out there," he said, pointing to a spot just east of his house where the Pascagoula River Swamp begins. "I'm not proud of it. I didn't mind giving tickets. It was my job, but sometimes I could have cried because I was so close to them. I caught brothers and cousins."

It was his daddy who set him on the straight and narrow row of law enforcement. "Daddy's request when I took the job was: 'Be fair, go straight down the line and if comes down to me I carry my fine payment in my pocket.'"

Just about everybody who hunted and fished in the 1950s, '60s and '70s has stories about Mallette and his strict enforcement practices. "Snooks always enforced the law equally, and made a meaningful contribution to protecting wildlife," said Curtis Davis, retired dean of Jackson County Community College and Mallette's brother-in-law.

Born James Kennedy Mallette in Vancleave, an uncle gave him his nickname right out of the funny papers. It came from a strip about a youngster named Snooks who was always into mischief. "I guess that's the way I was as a kid, and the name stuck," he recalled. "In school, if a teacher called on James, I didn't even know that was me."

In the midst of the Great Depression he wooed and won Sabra Lee Fairley. They were married on March 6, 1937. Ten of their 11 children are living and still in this area, and with 29 grandchildren and 25 great grandchildren, they have jam-packed, fun-loving family reunions at the children's homes.

"The grandbabies just love to hear his stories," said his wife, Sabra, 85.

I liked one about three fisherman who reportedly were telephoning catfish (using a crank telephone with a line and chain on the bottom to shock fish which float to the surface.) One of the men bragged that "Snooks Mallette isn't smart enough to catch me." That wasn't smart.

"I hunted them all weekend and was getting hungry Sunday evening so I came home for a plate," Mallette recalled. "One of the fellows saw me come home and assumed I was through for the weekend."

Mallette

Mallette was never through.

"When I went back to Potacaw Bayou, I checked a trot line fisherman's license and found out they were up at a deep hole where Bear Bayou comes into Parrish Lake Bayou," he said. "I put my motor on cruise and pulled right up on them. They paid big fines and it cost them their boat and motor."

Snooks and Sabra enjoy their quiet, easy-going lifestyle on the edge of the swamp. We watched humming birds, redbirds and bluebirds. They talked about the deer feeding in their front yard. Also out front is a man-made lake which they use to turn a water turbine and grind fresh corn meal, a favorite of many.

After his career with the Game and Fish Commission, he never cared to hunt or fish. "I just like to watch them, after protecting them for so long."

After covering 750 square miles and more than 1,000 miles of water for almost 30 years, as one of two wardens in Jackson County, Mallette deservedly rocks a lot on his front porch and tells tales to grandbabies and senior columnists.

George L. Mallette Dies At Home In Fort Bayou

George L. Mallette, head of a large and prominent West Jackson County family, died at his home in Fort Bayou Monday afternoon following a long illness. He was 86 years of age.

Mr. Mallette is survived by his widow, to whom he had been wed 66 years, and 119 direct descendants including nine children, 51 grandchildren, and 49 great grandchildren.

He was a lifelong resident of Jackson County and the majority of his descendants still reside in the county.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Antioch Baptist Church with interment in the cemetery at the church. The Rev. Ed Lewis, assisted by the Rev. R. L. Vaughn, conducted the funeral and the pallbearers included five grandsons Lloyd and Keble DeLancey, Marion, Lamar, and Elmo Mallette, and a grandson by marriage, Hinton Fairley.

Survivors, besides the widow, include seven sons: George, Hubert, Raymond, Lester, and Tony of Fort Bayou; Fred of North Biloxi; and Peter of Saucier, and two daughters, Mrs. Verta Lee Campbell and Mrs. Annie DeLancey of Fort Bayou.

Mr. Mallette was active for many years in church and school affairs in his community and his sons and daughters and their families continue in his footsteps in the Fort Bayou Community.

A large crowd gathered for the last tribute to a pioneer citizen and the floral offerings attested to the respect he commanded.

VANCLEAVE

Mrs. R. Lee Ramsay of Texas is here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. W. H. Westfall.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Westfall, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Ramsay, and Mrs. R. L. Ramsay visited Mr. and Mrs. John Ramsay and family at Grand Bay, Ala., last Sunday afternoon.

Everyone is delighted to know that Mrs. L. R. Roberts is rapidly recovering from her recent severe illness.

Mrs. M. P. Davis and son, Marion L. Davis, were here from Hattiesburg during commencement week.

Mrs. J. E. Lockard returned recently from a visit to her old home in Oxford, Miss.

Henry Mallette of Fort Bayou, brother of Messrs. George and William Mallette, died suddenly last Wednesday. The funeral took place Thursday morning.

Miss Eddre May Taylor returned Saturday from a week's visit in Moss Point and Pascagoula.

The Vancleave Consolidated School closed last Thursday, the graduating exercises taking place that night. Rev. R. L. Vaughn gave the invocation. Orey Dupree delivered the salutatory. Supt. B. F. Brown of Gulfport City Schools gave a splendid talk on the "Essentials of Success," the Seniors sang a song, Miss Odelle Ramsay played a brilliant piano solo, Olin Davis was valedictorian, County Supt. Meghehe made a good talk and presented the eighth grade diplomas. Orey Dupree was given the Interstate Bank & Trust Company medal for best essay, Olin Davis won the medal for being "Honorary Student." Principal C. E. Dees presented, in a most pleasing way, the diplomas to the graduating class and in conclusion the Junior class sang a beautiful farewell song to the Seniors. The members of the class were: Olin Davis, Orey Dupree, J. W. Davis, Marcia Davis, Mildred Davis, Odelle Ramsay, Leola Tootle, Mildred White, Vera Roberts, Mary Patten Roberts, and Mary Belle Ellis. The flower girls were four daintily attired little maidens, Adelaide Mallette, Frances McRaney, Katherine Davis, and Dorothy Schmoll. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. A. G. Miller.

C. O. Weeks left Friday for Vance, Miss., where he will join his wife and son for a week's visit with his parents. Mr. Weeks was accompanied as far as tion and on budgeting. Mrs. Earl Davis was elected secretary and treasurer of the club. Mrs. Norman Ramsay is president. The next meeting will be held the first Saturday in June.

EAST SIDE DEMONSTRATION CLUB ENTERTAINS VISITORS

Friday, May 5, East Side Home Demonstration Club was host to Americus and Hurley Home Demonstration Clubs in the home of Mrs. Hulda Hooks. There were thirty-two women present.

The women arrived about 10:00 o'clock a. m. After a social visit the women tried their skill at jig-saw puzzles. At noon the East Side women served a bountiful fish dinner. Later they served frozen custard.

The women visited Mrs. Hooks' vegetable garden. She is community garden leader. They found a number of vegetables ready for the table.

In the afternoon canning and jars were discussed. All departed hoping to meet again soon at the Womans' Camp.

REPORTER.

KEEP FIVE YEAR OLD CHILDREN FROM SCHOOL

(Weekly News Letter by W. F. Bond, Superintendent).

Since the people by an overwhelming majority last fall voted to keep five year olds in the public schools for next session. Not only will it be much better for the five year old children to stay at home for another year but it will also relieve the pressure on the public schools where money is scarce.

Children kept out of the public schools until they are six or seven years of age are happier in their work, make better progress and finish on time with better grades.

Thodore Semmes

GRAND BAY—Thodore Semmes, 65, a life-long resident of Mobile County, died Monday at Mobile General Hospital following a brief illness. His survivors include one niece.

a private, secret poll of voters in the district.

Mayor Dickson asked Assistant Superintendent M. J. Bullock to comment on the request.

Bullock: "We are for anything that will help. However, I believe that the trouble lies in misunderstanding on the part of the people."

"The people of Moss Point have never had to pay for schools. Only two bond issues ever passed; the Magnolia High School issue and one other."

"The federal government has borne most of the cost of building schools in this district."

"They don't know what it is to pay for schools or to have a quality educational program. I don't believe the site defeated the bond issue. It was sectionalism—the question of 'What are you going to do for me?'"

After much more discussion, during which no solution was offered, the meeting adjourned.

Vehicles Crash

A two-vehicle wreck at the intersection of Ingalls Avenue and Short Columbus Road Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. resulted in a total of $350 in damages, Pasadena police reports show.

Police said Howard G. Smith, 24, of 225 W. Dupont Ave. was stopped at a traffic light when the truck was hit by a car driven by Larry L. Kelly, 29, who was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Patrolmen O. F. Thornton and Billy Smith investigated.

what is good copy we come to the consideration of the other part of the question—how is it produced? It depends largely upon the product to be advertised as to what device we should employ to attract attention to it.

For the ice manufacturer, the problem of advertising is a local one. Local competition forces him into a liberal use of space. If he desires to maintain his position he must advertise. Without publicity he would drop into the ranks of second or third raters—for persistent, direct publicity is necessary nowadays to keep the ice moving from the store room, to sell all your factory can turn out. Of course this does not apply to the lucky ice man who is the only manufacturer within a radius of several miles, but to the ones in a competitive locality.

All ice sounds alike to the consumer, and as prices are, as a rule, uniform in each locality, the question of greatest importance is to divert the consumer's mind and make him think of your ice to the exclusion of all other ice. That was the vexed problem confronting the Weinacker Ice and Fuel Company, and one which we realized would be a very hard one to solve. Of course we advertised that we were selling pure ice, ice that melted slowly and all that sort of thing. We also did a considerable amount of personal solicitation. But we wanted our ice to be an indelible mark on the map of Mobile, and we thought and thought and thought, when, lo and behold, came a sudden inspiration.

One of our ice customers was an "ISE." Something about it appealed to them. It might not have been a different product, the price might have been the same, but the uniqueness of the proposition took like a duck takes to water, and our factory was kept working overtime. We increased our capacity, but even then we kept on working night and day. We are still manufacturing "ISE" and selling all we make. When any one wants ice in our community he wants it from those fellows who spell it with an "S," and that means us. I might not be truthful in saying that "ICE" advertising pays, but I assure you that advertising "ISE" pays and has put us away ahead of the "other fellow."

DEATH OF MR. CLEM MALLET.

We were very sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Clem Mallett, who died rather suddenly last week at the residence of his son, J. M. Mallett, at Rocky Creek. Mr. Mallett had been feeling a little unwell for some days, but thought nothing of it, and Tuesday evening was at Jim Mallett's, and complained of feeling bad. Mrs. Mallett advised him to go lie down and rest a while. When he got up to start he fell, and she caught him and assisted him to the bed. He apparently improved for a short time when he was taken worse again and died before a doctor could reach him. Mr. Mallett was one of the old land marks of this country and was highly respected. Everybody knew Uncle Clem, and everybody liked him. He leaves a large family connection.

MALLETTE

Mr. Thomas M. Mallette, 51, was born in Biloxi, Miss. on July 29, 1949. He departed this life on March 18, 2001. He was a lifelong resident of Vancleave. Mr. Mallette was a local businessman who over the period of his life was able to employ hundreds of employees. He was dedicated to his employees and their families. Tommy was sole owner of B&S Trucking Company of Mississippi where he was in the flatbed trucking industry. At one time, his company ran over eighty trucks nationwide. Some of his clients included local small businesses, and some of the largest companies in the world. He was admired in the trucking industry. He knew all aspects of the business from driving, repairing, dispatching as well as the business side of trucking. He was a self taught businessman. He attended Vancleave Public Schools, but at the age of fourteen, he fell in love with his lifelong occupation, trucking, and began running eighteen wheel trucks across the united States. After becoming an adult and being in the trucking industry for a number of years, he began his own trucking business. He was a man that worked extremely hard, and took advantage of the opportunities given him by God. His hobbies include traveling with his family, hunting, and fishing.

Mr. Mallette, or as he preferred "Tommy", was a loving husband, father, grandfather, and brother. He deeply cared for his family. He will be missed by all that knew and cared for him. He was loved and admired by his siblings who looked to him for guidance. Even though he was not the oldest sibling, he was the oldest son. He took his role as the patriarch seriously. When he began working at the age of fourteen, he helped provide for his brothers and sisters.

Tommy was preceded in death by his father and mother, Mr. Thomas M. and Mrs. Margarette E. Jones Mallette.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Joy Mallette of Vancleave, his two daughters and a son-in-law, Brandi and Lance McMahan of Hattiesburg, and Amy Mallette of Vancleave, two step-daughters, Alisha Schollian of Big Point, and Jennifer Schollian of Pascagoula, one brother and sister-in-law, Kenny and Wanda Mallette of Shreveport, La., six sisters and brothers-in-law, Linda and Rev. Bill Horne of Gautier, Jenny and Bobby Joe Quave of Vancleave, Edith and Bert Chapman of Moss Point, Mary Ellen and Don Thompson of Gulfport, Judy Anderson of Vancleave, and Sandra Mallette of Moss Point, grandchildren, Haley Breanna Roberts, Dylon Thomas Mallette, and Nicolas Marlan McMahan, former wife, Paulette Mallette of Vancleave, and numerous nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.

Visitation will be Tuesday, march 20, from 6 until 9 p.m. at Holder-Wells Funeral Home in Moss Point. Funeral services will be Wednesday, March 21, at 2 p.m. from the funeral home chapel with the Rev. Jerry Reed and the Rev. Mike Vice officiating. Interment will follow in Vancleave Cemetery No. 1.

Pallbearers will be Barry Bragg, Mike McDonald, Doug Hollingsworth, Paul Hopper, Hal Mallette, Randy Quave, Billy Talton and John Gilbert.

Arrangements by Holder-Wells Funeral Home, Moss Point, Miss.

Henry,

Here is some information that I got from Gil Parton. This is not the entire file. I'm just sending the first two generations, since they are the ones that are in question. Everything after that is pretty well documented.. I think this will help answer some of the questions about John and Louise and Elizabeth.

Here is a portion of Gil's note:

Hi Rick,

Good to hear from you. How is your website going. I have been so busy with my Strahan site I haven't been to yours for a long time. My Strahan family is having a reunion at Hillside, Miss this year over the Labor Day holiday. Hillside is between Lumberton and Poplarville. I plan on going and hope to add to my Strahan, Moran and Malley family also.

The John Malley and Elizabeth Tillman marriage is indeed the second marriage of our John Malley that 1st married Louise Nicaise. I got the info from the 1860 Jackson County Miss Census.

Do you need any other info. I have added many ties to our Moran Malley line. Maybe some you already have but let me know and I can send you a gedcom.

to me

Tommy,

I don't know where her middle name came from. It sure sounds 'French' and coincidentally is simile to "Malette".

Also "Malette" was often misspelled/mid pronounced and mis- recorded as 'Maly', 'Malley', 'Mallet' and other ways possibly.

"Jean" was done the same way as 'John'.

Here's a brief lineage from Jean Mallette down to me.

Jean's first wife was Louise Fayard of the Cat Island settlers.

His second wife was Elizabeth Tillman the daughter of his neighbor when married to Louise.

There were numerous children from both marriages. Through his first marriage his children married into several of the old French coastal families Fay: Necaise, Ladner, etc.

one of Jean and Elizabeth's children was a son named Clement who married Adeline Miller. The group picture is of their children as adults. The one o standing is Julia Massalette Mallette who married Charles Posey Eubanks. He is standing in the back behind the group.

Charles Posey and Julia Massalette had a large family and one of their daughters was Lola Virginia who married Maurice Leander Malone. One of the father Carroll Darwin Malone.

That makes Jean Mallette my fourth Great Grand Father.

My Grandfather M L Malone, was the Chancery and Circuit Clerk for George County, State Representative from George and an Attorney.

My Great Grandfather C P Eubanks was the first Sheriff of George County.

Some of my Eubanks ancestors were part of a Militia led by Sterling Dupree that 'assisted' in removing the last of the Spanish officials and military from Mississippi coastal area of Jackson County.

And last, I was born in Pascagoula in 1946.
